As the Teaching Profession Evolves, Supporting Educators Remains Essential

What initially attracted you to the teaching profession?

"I have a passion for the subject matter as well as wanting to be like some of the teachers and coaches who had mentored me."

Other answers included: 5% - Job security and benefits, 5% - Other

"Letting teachers know that they are appreciated and supported would go a long way."

What is the biggest change that you've experienced in your teaching career?

17%
29%
46%
Role of technology
Stress and anxiety levels
Changes in social behavior

Other answers included: 7% - Other, 1% - Variation in learning styles

What has been the most significant factor that has kept you in the teaching profession?

"It's more fulfilling to serve kids with my math skills than it was being an accountant."

×=

"Educators are and always will be in great demand – it is a rewarding career, even with all the challenges educators face today."

On a scale of 1-10, how likely are you to recommend a career in education to friends or family?

5.8

average rating

1-6
7-8
9-10
56%
32%
12%

Based on your experience, over the last three years, has the teaching environment changed?

14%

Remained

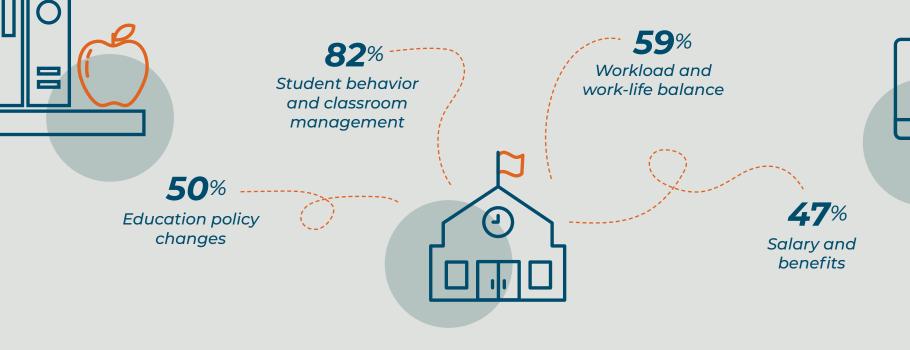

the same

Improved

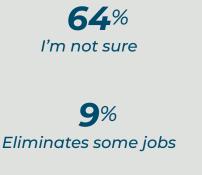

80% Declined

6

What are your primary concerns about the teaching profession today?

How do you view the impact of artificial intelligence (AI) in teaching?

"I use AI to help with administrative functions, brainstorming ideas and editing correspondence"

"I would like to see teachers get more support from parents, administration, and the government. It feels like we are not looked at as professionals and our experiences and knowledge mean nothing."

Rounded data from a survey of The Horace Mann Educator Advisory Panel, April 2024